Let's Party Cake :

The inspiration for this project came from the birthday rub-on sayings. I used my favorite cake template to cut out twelve cake pieces, then cut out the little clown with my die cutter. I "iced" this cake with "whipped cream icing", adding pink accents with chocolate and pink roses for decorations. The "chocolate" base with the clown standing on it tops off the cake just right. Even though the chocolate on top is pretend, you can add real chocolate treats inside as party favors.

Birthday Heart Plaque :

Because I was thinking birthday this month, I made my sister a birthday present! My goal here was to show off all of the colors in the Jane Jenkins summer strips assortment. There were so many colors I had to keep making flowers!!

Look at all of the wonderful colors and possibilities in just one pack of strips.

Smile Frame :

This little mini frame can be used so many ways. As a real little photo keeper... just right for those wallet-sized school pictures, in a scrapbook to frame something special, hooked together vertically for a small space on your wall, or even added to the front of a card. I was looking for an inspirational saying that would fit in my little frame. "Smile" was the saying I came up with (maybe that was my theme for the month, now that I think about it!). Adding the pink paisley to the inside of the frame and then covering the outside with the harlequin print made for a nice background. Next I printed SMILE on the off-white paper, cut it out, then added pink and brown behind as a frame, and some pop dots behind it all. I used the pinks in the quilling strips to make the flower and buds.

* See Sue's review on page 5 for more "smile" suggestions.

Pink Paisley Card :

The fun pink and brown paisley designer paper in the August kit was a perfect fit for recreating the design in quilling, pairing it with my paisley Nestabilities as a base. I changed up the simple flower design and created a flower within each petal for more interest. The sentiment is also from the kit and is a rub-on. This is the first time that I have used a rub-on in a card project and I really like the way it came out!

Of course I had to have some bling, so I added pink crystals, a bow, and some glitter dots to finish the matching design.

Flowery Hi Card :

This card was inspired by the colors of quilling strips in the August kit. The colors are so bright and summery I decided to use them to make flowers. The layered design of quilled flowers and chipboard letters has been on my "to do" list for a bit and now was the perfect time. I used the card base and parchment cardstock from the kit, pairing it with some designer paper and cardstock from my stash. I love making the eccentric circle flowers and the card went together fast. Inside I used another of the rub-on sentiments from the kit.

Beach Party Birthday Album :

This project was for my granddaughter's 1st birthday and the kit's theme was perfectly timed! The rub-ons in the kit have a nice assortment of birthday related sentiments, plus others for many fun and happy occasions. I made the album and decorated it with quilled starfish, a palm tree, and a sand dollar which goes with the beach theme of her party. The little frame is in the kit and I covered it with matching designer paper from my stash. It is highlighted with a gold pen and a quilled birthday cake and a "1" for her first birthday! I put a placeholder picture in the frame and will replace it with one from her party later.

Fun, easy, and useful project.

Reviews

The kit for August is just right for a birthday! An assortment of pink and brown paisley prints, parchment, pink, brown, off white, and harlequin print papers to make your projects. Cute little paper maché frames, buttons, blank cards, birthday party rub-on sayings, and Jane Jenkins summer assortment strips. This kit will keep you busy creating all month.

*Some "Smile" sayings: Everyone smiles in the same language. Author Unknown, Smiling is my favorite exercise. Author Unknown, Wrinkles should merely indicate where smiles have been. Mark Twain, Smile...it makes people wonder what you're up to. Author Unknown, Peace begins with a smile. Mother Teresa and A smile is a facelift that's in everyone's price range! Ziggy.

This month's kit is packed with bright colors and papers that lend to making many fun, cheery projects. All of the quilling in my projects was done using the generous amount of strips that came in the kit and I still have more! There are a pack of buttons in the kit that I have in mind for another card and like last month, there are plenty of supplies left! I can even recycle the cardboard that was in the kit to make another album!
